

Summer II Dialogue Brazil in the 21st Century: Portuguese Language, Globalization, and Sustainability

The “Brazil in the 21st Century: Portuguese Language, Globalization, and Sustainability” is a 4-week, faculty-led program offering students immersion into one of the world’s most dynamic, diverse, and growing populations.

This program consists of two courses: a Portuguese language course (for beginners, intermediate, or advanced learners) and a course on the globalization of Brazil that focuses on history, politics, economy, and culture. Both courses will be held in Salvador, the third largest city in the country of Brazil.

The program will culminate with a 4-day excursion to Foz do Iguaçu to visit one of the world’s largest waterfalls and hydroelectric power facilities. Students will examine the implications and challenges that urban growth and globalization present to sustainability for Brazilian society.

Course Credits: 8 - Pre-requisites: The program is open to students of ANY major. Previous coursework in a Romance language is recommended, and an interview with the faculty co-leaders is required.
